Winchester Little Theatre, 315 West Boscawen St.
Open Dec. 8 10 a.m.-5 p.m. and Dec. 9 noon-5 p.m.
House Chairman: Dolly Vachon
Shop Co-Chairs: Debra L. Johnson and Jackie Tobin

The Shop offers fresh cut greenery—including box-wood, magnolia, and holly—for your holiday decorating. Baked goods and handcrafts from local artists are available for gift-giving.

The Theatre occupies a former Pennsylvania Railroad freight depot built circa 1890. The hipped roof over the brick exterior provides cover for the freight loading dock. The interior was modified to accommodate live theatre performances by the Winchester Little Theatre. The Theatre moved into its railway home in 1974 and has provided critically acclaimed professional-quality live theatre to the community ever since.

Holiday Tour Sites

Join PHW in the yearly celebration of the holidays with the 36th annual Holiday House Tour. Visit historic sites decorated for the holidays and transformed for modern uses. The Blue Ridge Blend Barbershop Quartet will serenade you on Saturday evening. Carolers in period costumes organized by Todd and Theresa Apple of the Winchester Little Theatre will stroll the streets Sunday. This is one event you won't want to miss!

230 West Boscawen Street

New Lifestyles

House Chairman Lawrence Belkin

Known as the George Seevers Residence or the Holly House, this circa 1854 building was designed in the Greek Revival style with Italianate influences. The brick structure combines Greek Revival-style frieze windows and pedimented doorway surround with Italianate arched windows, brick quoins, and hood molds. Union General Banks used this building as his headquarters in 1862. The building was later owned by the various members of the Conrad family from 1879-1940 before being converted to office space. Today it is the business office for New Lifestyles.

140 West Boscawen Street

Christ Episcopal Church

House Chairman Chris Ferguson

Christ Episcopal Church has been in continuous use as a sacred site in Winchester since its construction in 1828. The Gothic Revival-style building is dominated by the three-story bell tower crowned with finials and quatrefoil balustrades. A pointed-arch accented with a flower motif surrounds the double-leaf paneled wood doors. Of particular interest and beauty are the stained glass windows, installed in the late 19th century by the Gernhart Company of Baltimore.

103 South Washington Street

Chuck Alton and Judith Omslaer

House Chairman John Barker

This Italianate style home was constructed circa 1880 for the Willis family. The elongated first-story windows, segmental brick arches, and modest detailing typifies domestic architecture in Winchester during this period. A centered, half-hipped bay typical of the Italianate form projects from the façade. Paired scrolled brackets, cornice returns an ogee-molded cornice, and jig-sawn brackets and pendants complete the Italianate styling.

205 South Washington Street

Ardis Cullers

House Chairman Mark Lore

Constructed circa 1951 by Boyd Hamman, this one-and-one-half-story home was designed in the Colonial Revival style with a Cape Cod form. Two dormers, each with a front-gabled roof, extend from the eastern slope of the roof. The central bay on the façade contains a single-leaf, paneled wood door surrounded by four-light side-lights and a semi-elliptical fanlight. This was the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Patton, who established Patton's Furniture Sales in 1957.

211 South Washington Street

Erich and Kristin Bruhn

House Chairman Karen Clay

Historically known as the Richard Byrd Residence, this Federal-style dwelling was constructed in 1832 for the prominent Winchester lawyer and member of the Virginia House of Delegates of the same name. Built of Flemish-bond brick, the home is topped with a hipped roof featuring a central Palladian dormer window. The Federal-style entrance sports a fine elliptical fanlight and moldings. The Queen Anne-style porch embellished with a dentilated cornice and spindlework was added circa 1870. This house was willed to PHW by Mrs. Lucille Lozier, an early president of the organization. It is now owned by the Bruhns.

201 South Braddock Street

John Chesson and Anne Schempp

House Chairman Sandra Bosley

Constructed circa 1810 with a Federal-style form, the building was altered in the 1840s to reflect the fashionable Greek Revival style. Samuel Noakes purchased the house and property in 1857. The house was altered again in the twentieth century for commercial use as the Peoples Barber Shop. The building is a mixture of limestone and brick covered with a low-pitched, side-gabled roof, covered with standing-seam metal. The house is currently undergoing renovation. Images of the process will be presented during the tour of the space.

Candlelight Tour and Preview Party

15 South Washington Street

Richard and Pamela DeBergh

House Chairmen Bruce and Donna Downing

This special home will only be open during the Preview Party and Candlelight Tour on Saturday evening. Built circa 1899, the DeBergh house features an eclectic assembly of Colonial Revival-style details. The central entrance is capped by an elliptical fanlight and surrounded by wide side-lights with delicate tracery. Unusually articulated Palladian windows flank the entrance. The second floor has a central bay window festooned with carved swags. Note the Gothic tracery in the second-floor windows, an unusual feature for any house at the turn-of-the-20th century. The house is topped by dormers with alternating triangular and broken-arched pediments in the Dutch Colonial Revival-style slate gambrel roof.
